

Homeosynthesis is the synthesis of homeopathy (from the Greek synthesis: "reunion in one piece of all the component parts making the whole"), also It is the synthesis of the knowledge of psychology, allopathic medicine, polarity healing, astrology, yoga and alchemy. Based on the seven fold nature of man, it uses seven homeopathic metals which represent the essential components. This model is universal and we can apply it to whatever area of a human being (health, relationships, profession) and to all the sciences of knowledge.

Energy is the basis of the function and the form. Homeosynthesis corrects the basic energetic imbalances which provoke the disturbances of the proper functioning of the individual.

Balancing the four psychological functions (feelings, thinking, intuition and perception) and their two orientation (introversion or extroversion) and their three basic disfunctional responses (dysfunction, hyperfunction and hypofunction) this preventing the functional disturbances to transform into organic pathology.

If we do not balance both the psychological and functional disturbances, the illness would transform into an organical disfunction with time, through burying unconsciously the psychological conflicts.

In treating the illness the main objective is to strengthen the health impacting in the energetic and mental aspects of the patient. Then the illness is healed from the inside to the outside.

With the "noble" metals such as gold and silver we strengthen the consciousness which is the most excellent therapeutic agent. With the "less pure" metals we work to solve the resistances of the disfunctional processes of thinking, feelings, emotions and instincts.
